Purpose of the Network

To advance a vision and understanding of community engagement at Oklahoma State University and the role it plays in

- Advancing the instruction mission – Additional value to the student experience via engagement
- Advancing the scholarship mission – Fostering discovery, innovation and creativity in using the best minds to solve the toughest problems of the state, nation and the world
- Advancing the service mission – Demonstrating to people living and working in Oklahoma and beyond that the University contributes to their well-being – a contribution far beyond enrolling Oklahoma’s best and brightest students.

To think collectively about how OSU can better tell the story of its contribution to the public good

- How do we tell the story within the University community?
- How do we tell the story to decision makers and the public?

To think collectively about tacit strategies to accomplish the goals listed above

- How can we better support faculty members?
- How can we increase opportunities for students?
- How do we engage staff, the public, and other university stakeholders?

Purpose of Monthly Meetings: Inform, Inspire, and Think Together

Inform

- What each OSU unit is contributing to the public good via community engagement
- Portray the importance of university engagement in responding to community challenges – locally, in Oklahoma, nationally, and around the world
- Support and update OSU’s broadened understanding of community engagement in concert with the 2015 Carnegie Community Engagement Classification
- There is an “us” in the triangular relationship of service with scholarship and instruction at OSU. It is not an “either or”
- About opportunities to apply for awards, publish, network, present at engagement journals, Engagement Scholarship Consortium annual conferences, etc.

Inspire

- Not to be boastful or credit-taking
- Not defensive about the importance of community engagement
- Focused more on outcomes than outputs and inputs: What is the valued added for students, faculty, the university, and communities – by University-Community engagement?
Think Together about

- The critical issues of Oklahoma – the context of this region of the country and the world
- Community engagement and how OSU connects and engages with the public, industry, and other nations
- The role of community engagement in students’ academic achievements and as future workforce
- How to better interweave the work of University units (schools, colleges, Cooperative Extension, Experiment Stations, centers and service units) with other programs and activities (such as seed grants, awards, committees, interest groups, and faculty development programs)
- How OSU can continue to work to address Oklahoma’s critical challenges such as those related to poverty, hunger, economic opportunities, energy, water, the environment, the changing demographic profile, globalization, the educational pipeline, and the health and well-being of people living and working in Oklahoma
- The intersections of the disciplines – and how this is where important work is done to solve complex political, economic, and social issues
- The impact of connecting students to communities on academic learning, (especially general education outcomes), personal development, and sense of civic responsibility. Students are learning while communities are moving forward – a parallel process
- Innovative community participatory discovery

Scholarship of Engagement Defined*

1. Scholarship in the areas of teaching, research, and/or service
2. Intentionally engages faculty, staff and students...
3. In academically-relevant work that...
4. Simultaneously meets OSU’s mission and goals and community needs.
5. This scholarly agenda contributes to the public good.
